ARTIST ON THE RISE!

Meet Kameron!

Digital art is Kameron's thing and he's here to make sure that you know it! This artist is making a splash in graphic design this trimester. Kameron has been on point and focused on learning as many new skills as possible in this medium. Better yet, Kameron has also been a rockstar in helping classmates to be just as successful in learning these new skills! Way to go, Kameron!

GOT TEA?

The Comedian?

Maurizio Cattelan is known for his tongue-in-cheek art. For Comedian, he purchased the bananas at a Miami grocery store for an estimated 30 cents. Overall

Comedian created controversy, with some writers, such as Robin Pogrebin, questioning if it was even art. The Guardian called Comedian a "questionably genius work ... It calls to mind the old Lucile Bluth Arrested Development gag about rich people not knowing the price of a banana". Artnet News wrote the piece was one of the worst of the week, and that Cattelan "somehow duped a group of collectors into buying bananas duct-taped to walls for $120,000 a pop.

MEET KULSUM TASNIF

"I was born in England, grew up travelling between London and Muscat, and came to the US when I was in Junior High. My parents are from Pakistan so I identify as a Pakistani-American-Muslim.

My style and approach varies depending upon the story I'm telling. My Arabic calligraphic work usually takes the form of acrylic on canvas with added elements like fabric and beading for texture. I love drawing, so for one series I combined painting colorful borders and patterns with black and white illustrations. "
